Stowe, Vermont is a rare find. A legendary mountain resort that is truly a four seasons destination, combined with 200 years of history, a decidedly non-corporate feel, and genuine New England charm. Consistently ranked as the "Ski Capital of the East" for both alpine and nordic skiing, Stowe has even more to offer as Vermont's premier summer and fall resort area.

There are many reasons why summer and fall visitors have flocked to Stowe for over 150 years: great hiking, biking, fishing, sightseeing, music, theatre, golf, tennis and much more...including lots of fresh mountain air!

Fall foliage is unparalleled, offering spectacular red, yellow and orange tinted views amid the already stunning peaks and valleys of the Green Mountains.

There are many facets to Stowe's famous winter allure: skiing, snowboarding, snowshoeing, and cross country skiing. At the heart of all Stowe adventure is majestic Mt. Mansfield, Vermont's highest peak and one of the world's most famous ski and snowboarding mountains

Because, chains and franchises are discouraged in Stowe, dining is nicely varied with a full selection of 75 restaurants for all tastes and budgets, and more culinary award winners than any New England town of similar size. Similarly, shopping can be quite rewarding, with over 100 unique owner-operated shops and boutiques.
